Attractions Coming To Washington

With the six remaining performances of "The Serenade," the Aborn company brings its season at the National Theater to a close. This being the last week of the season, therefore, the company has brought an unusually large number of principals who are local favorites to the cast of the farewell performances, and the indications are that the opera will be well patronized.

It will be noted that the cast of "The Serenade" is one of the largest that has been seen here during the Aborn's present season, including, as it does, Estelle Wentworth, Albert Parr, Forrest Huff, Fritzi von Busing, George Shields, Madge North, Phil Branson, Frank Wooley, William Shuster, and others. With the six remaining performances

"We Are Seven," the Eleanor Gates comedy which the Poil Players are to present next week for its first production in Washington, enjoys two unusual distinctions. It is one of the few farces that has ever been indorsed by the Drama League and it is a most amusing and wholesome play built around the highly scientific subject of eugenics.

Ics.

Produced for the first time in New York with a cast headed by Bessie Barriscale, it made a big hit because it was so carefully put together that it struck a new and thoroughly pleasing note at a time the amusement market was flooded with all sorts of questionable problems in both comedy and drama.

The young heroine of the play is a rich, handsome college graduate who spends much of her tme in the slums looking for material for a thesis on engenics. She is also throughout on the East Side, looking for a husband who will register 100 per cent according to the best eugenic standards. The hero is a young man who is first of all a pratical joker and falls into the job of escort to the fair eugenist by pretending he is a deaf muts.

In the touching and beautiful characthe fouching and beautiful character of Glad, the little waif of the East Side slums, who, in her darkest hours, never loses faith in the Supreme Being, Mary Pickford is said to attain a degree of power in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," the latest Famous Players Film Company's production greater then

RESORTS

From beginning to end, Glad appears only in the grimy rags she is wearing when Sir Oliver Holt, a wealthy finan-cier, discovers her huddled against her door in Apple Blossom court.

Louise Kent, for so long a popular member of the Poli Playars, is to appear as a part of the Keith bill next week at the head of her own company in "Iu Rent-Furnished," by Cora Maynard, which is described as a most amusing one-act play. Miss Kent is to be assisted by Frederick Forrester, Margaret Allen and William E. Nolte.

Fiske O'Hara, the Irish romantic actor and singer, who starred in "Jack's Romance," is another recruit for Keith yaudeville and will make his debut here next week.

vaudeville and will make his debut here next week.

From the Lydia Lopekova troupe of dancers will come the six girls forming the Marion Morgan classic dancers, who will portray Greek, Roman, and Egyptian dances. Others of importance will be Charlle Case, "Who Talks About His Father;" Lighter and Jordan, musical comedy misses; the Kaufman brothers; Adeline Francis, and the Toyo troupe.

Next Sunday at the vaudeville concerts, at 3 and 8:15 p. m., the bill will embrace the hits in the present week's bill.

The new bill to be presented the last half of the week at the Cosmos Theater, beginning Thursday, is headed by "The Star's Revue," which, with Billy Dooley and company, presents a series of characterizations of famous stars, including David Warfield, Laurette Taylor, Robert Mantell, and others.

The chief of the new acts will be Drawee, Hambo, and Fresco's presentation of "Fun in a Hottentot Hotel." Other acts include John Eckert and Frank Parker, in "The Golfers:" Watson and Little, in "A Matrimonial Bargain," and the Evans Sisters, as the Irish Colleens. The feature photoplay will picture Weber and Field in "Two of the Bravest."

A special feature will be introduced

of the Bravest."

A special feature will be introduced Friday evening when three prizes in gold will be given for the best imitations of Charlie Chaplin. A program of merit will be presented by the orchestra at the Sunday concerts from 3 to 10:30 p. m.

Offreing a long list of amusement devices, many features of which are included in the free admission, Glen Echo Park is making a strong bid these hot days for favor with Capital folks on the lookout for a day's outing or an offerness or avaning a superson or avaning a superson. In the touching and beautiful character of Glad, the little waif of the East Side slums, who, in her darkest hours, never loses faith in the Supreme Being, Mary Pickford is said to attain a degree of power in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," the latest Famous Players Film Company's production, greater than any of her past portrayals.

This film adaptation of Francis Hodson Burnett's drama will be shown at the Columbia Theater next week, on the Paramount Program which is being shown at that theater this summer.

Completely charming, Miss Pickford's portrayal of this character has a delightful frankness and a most direct appeal. The role of Glad is that of a picturesque, lovable little philosopher, groping for help from an unseen power which she but vaguely comprehends.

A GOOD REASON Dear Sir-My neighbog and I are constantly using a certain gate which we always keep locked so that none of our live stock might escape. Recently I lost my key, which put me in a very inconvenient situation. I noticed the ad of a locksmith, 1807 H st. nw., and immediately took my neighbor's key to have it duplicated. I am much pleased with these locksmiths and I heartily recommend them to any one wishing to have a key duplicated. J. C. RHODER
